

Not too challenging for Solutions House: The Halliwell Jones Stadium, home of Warrington Wolves Rugby League Team.

This stadium is also the hub of many community events and provides a model that other leading sports clubs throughout the world have studied. In the Martin Dawes East Stand you will also find health and education facilities and of course banqueting and conference capabilities serviced by the catering management partner, Heathcote's.

Solutions House tenacious telesales unearthed a wireless requirement at The Halliwell Jones Stadium; home of the Carnegie Challenge Cup winning Warrington Wolves.

A demonstration was arranged and both Extricom and Solutions House went along to meet with Andy Topham of Warrington Wolves to show him the Extricom Channel Blanket Wireless Solution in action.

Warrington Wolves were so impressed with the technology following the demonstration that the specifics of the requirement were quickly established and finalised.

Modern sports stadiums are fast implementing wireless networks for many different reasons;

To supply the press in their boxes with instant high bandwidth, high speed connections to the outside world, for corporate box users to receive web access and for catering organisations to move their data around the stadium. Other uses are also possible in the future.

This was also the case at Warrington Wolves and a collaborative solution with the Stadium management and Heathcote's catering was put forward.

Working closely with the client, we identified that Extricom's award-winning Interference-Free WLAN system was the perfect solution to fulfil their current needs whilst being fully upgradeable for future growth and expansion as well.

"We are very happy with the performance and are happy to recommend Solutions House to other stadiums."

Andy Topham, Wolves' Decision Maker

The proposal was accepted and Solutions House was selected as a specialist for this technology and product.

A project manager was assigned and as a result of this and through thorough preparation, the installation went smoothly, to budget and to the complete satisfaction of the client.

Administration training was also provided at no extra cost and the customer has now been left with a reliable, guaranteed level of wireless service.
